Intellectual Property: Copyright and Plagiarism

Intellectual Property Rights (IPR) refer to the legal rights granted to individuals or organizations over their creations and inventions. These rights are designed to protect the interests of creators by allowing them to control and benefit from their intellectual work. In a higher educational institution, faculty members often show their creations in terms of research publications in journals, conferences and perform in various media. So, it is important for them to know their rights regarding their own creation. In this respect, Dr. Bera explained the various types of intellectual properties and the ways to protect them. He also highlighted the ways to avoid plagiarism while citing others' creations.
